

1 must or can remain silent when the major activity, the 2 occupation of the people is somewhere else and when you
3 have employees who are larger than the state, whose 4 positions effect the daily lives of the citizens of the 5 state to a much greater or equal degree as the state
6 itself, I feel that the Constitution can deal with them,
7 and I point out to you, Delegate Groh, interestingly 8 enough, in the Constitutions, with the exception of 9 Hawaii, which is a separate section, in which the right 10 of employees to organize and bargain collectively is 11 stated, it is in the declaration of rights as the only
12 possible departure from this theory that you asked me
13 about.

14 THE CHAIRMAN: Delegate Groh.

15 DELEGATE GROH: Then I take it that you are not 16 in favor of including any other areas where we designate 17 rights of one individual against another individual?

18 THE CHAIRMAN: Delegate Bothe.

19 DELEGATE BOTHE: Could you give me an example?

20 THE CHAIRMAN: Delegate Groh.

21 DELEGATE GROH: For instance, Winhard versus Tennant.
